LONG ISLAND.

Where to go for Health, Comfort and Economy.

For the information of our patrons who are now beginning to think about where to go and spend the summer, we tion, producing all manner of cereal grains, fruits and vegetables; washed on one side by the mighty Ocean, and on the other by the peaceful Sound, abounding in game and literally alive with fish, with means for bathing, sailing, driving, fishing and hunting nowhere else equalled; with almost hourly communication with New York and the East.

bly low. This improvement in railroad travel begins to show fruit.

But we are now chiefly concerned with Summer tourists. A few general facts may be here set down. You may have the rough breath of outside ocean, the calmer zephyr of the inner bays, or the perfect quiet of the inland homes. You can have all manner of out-door enjoyment, free from the annoyance of crowds.

publish in the present issue of the DIRECTORY, a map of Long Island, giving the correct routes of the different branches of the Long Island Railroad, and the location of the various towns, nearly all of which possess some attraction for Summer Boarders.

Here is a country comprising nearly a million of acres of excellent soil, more than half of it under high cultivaThere have been reasons why Long Island was neglected, but they no longer exist. They were due to lack of means of rapid travel. Within two years a remarkable change has taken place. The main and branch railroads are now united under a single management, and run in harmony and for the accommodation of the people. Trains are regular and frequent, and fares are remarka-

The scenery is varied and beautiful; the streams and bays picturesque. And one thing should be known. The "season" on the Island begins in May and lasts until late in November, while at Long Branch and other places it ends early in September, on account of easterly storms. Such storms have no effect on the south side of the Island.

There are a number of fresh water streams running into the bays both north and south, a few considerable lakes, and a hundred charming ponds, from one to ten or twenty acres in size. These streams and ponds are the natural breeding places of trout and other fresh water fish, and the resort of various kinds of wild game.

The South Coast is a geological curiosity. Instead of lying exposed to the terrible sweep of the ocean waves, it is protected by a natural dyke or levee, in the form of a sand-bar, extending nearly the whole length of the island. Within this bar are several bays, where boating, fishing and bathing are always safe, as the sand-bars keep out the ocean swell, and the bays are not wide enough for a storm to have much effect upon the water

It is but a few years since Coney Island and Rockaway were the only known watering places on the island. Then, as the railroad spread over the middle and east, we find village after village offering inducements to strangers for the summer season, equal, save in dress and the follies of style, to any resorts in the land.

In these trying times, financially speaking, every man and woman has a regard for expense, and it is safe to assume that a great many who have hitherto stopped at Saratoga, Newport, or Long Branch, will be glad to find less costly accommodations. We are sure that Long Island is the place for those who would secure the most quiet and healthy homes, and best of fare, for the cheapest rates.

Rowing is of course at everyone's command. Fishing is the common pastime of the people, and a constant delight for strangers.

There are some peculiar advantages on the south side of the island that ought to be widely known. Here there is always a sea breeze, the prevailing winds coming from the southwest. This makes a land instead of a sea breeze at Long Branch. Long Island is but very slightly affected by northeast storms, as the intervening mainland of New England and of the island itself serves to break the force. There is a constant flow of fresh and pure water through the sandy soil, from the middle of the island to the Sound and the Ocean; this water is found n abundance at a depth of five to ten feet.

We will now start out for a brief survey of the different towns on the main line of the Long Island Rail Road and its several branches, beginning from Long Island City. There are two ferries from New York City, one landing at Thirty-fourth street; the other James Slip. For particulars of Boarding accommodations along the line, or further information concerning the various towns, apply to the Home Directory office.

Jamaica.—Nine and three quarter miles; about 4,000 inhabitants, post-of-fice (money order), and telegraph. Jamaica is an old settlement, begun in 1656.

Queens.—Thirteen and three quarter miles; 300 to 400 inhabitants; post-of-fice. This is a new and rapidly growing place.

Hyde Park.—Sixteen and three quarter miles; About 100 population. This is a new venture, spread over much ground, and having "great expectations."

Mineola.—Ninteen miles; post-office; 200 to 300 inhabitants. Notable for being an important agricultural centre.

Hempstead.—Twenty-one and a half miles; About 2,500 inhabitants. Telegraph and post office (money order). One of the original settlments, in a very healthy locality, and an excellent resort for summer travellers who prefer comfort to style.

Roslyn.—Twenty-two and three quarter miles; post office. Delightful village with charming views.

Sea Cliff.—Twenty-seven miles. Located on picturesque wooded bluff over-looking the Sound.

Glen Cove.—Twenty-seven and threequarter miles; post office. A wellknown manufacturing place for starch, tin- ware and house-furnishing goods.

Locust Valley.—Twenty-nine and a half miles; post office.

Westbury.—Twenty-two miles; post office.

Hicksville.—Twenty-five and a half miles. At this station Port Jefferson branch road diverges.

Syosset.—Twenty-one and a half miles.

Oyster Bay.—By stage from Syosset four miles. This is one of the finest watering places on the island, and is much sought after by those who seek beauty or amusement in the advantages it offers.

Cold Spring Harbor.—A splendid summer resort, about five miles by stage from Syosset, and one mile from Oyster Bay. Accessible also by steamboat direct from New York city. Post office.

Lakeland.—Forty-eight miles. This station is notable as the getting-off place for Lake Ronkonkoma (post office), one of the most delightful pieces of water that ever dimpled in the breeze or laughed at the sun.

Manor.—Sixty-five and a half miles; post office. Situated near the head of Peconic river, that rises in the ponds near by. This village is spread over much space.

Baiting Hollow.—Sixty-nine and a half miles; post office.

Riverhead.—Seventy-three and three quarter miles: post office (money order) and telegraph. County seat of Suffolk and a thriving and cosy place, on Peconic river, near the bay of that name.

Northville.—Two miles from Riverhead depot; "Success" post office.

Aquebogue.—Also two miles from Riverhead depot.

Jamesport.—Seventy-eight and three quarter miles; post office and telegraph. A cool and pleasant village on Peconic bay, and a favorite summer resort, especially for fishing, gunning and boating.

Mattituck.—Eighty-three miles; post office and telegraph. Mattituck Lake is a fine sheet of water. Good sport here for rod and gun.

Cutchogue.—Eighty-five and three quarter miles; post office. About a mile from Peconic Bay and an equal distance from the Sound. Excellent roads and very pleasant drives.

Peconic.—Eighty-eight miles.

Southold.—Ninety and a half miles; post office and telegraph. Southold is the oldest place in the eastern part of the island.

Greenport.—Ninety-four and three quarter miles; post office (money order) and telegraph. Population near 3,000. A comparatively modern town, almost surrounded by water, and famous for boating, fishing and shooting.

Moriches.—Seventy miles.

Speonk.—Seventy-three miles.

Westhampton.—Seventy-five and three qurter miles.

Quogue.—Seventy-eight miles; post office. An old and comparatively well-known place, not far from the ocean.

Atlanticville.—Seventy-nine and a quarter miles; post office.

Good Ground.—Eighty-three and a half miles; post office.

Southampton. -- Ninety and three quarter miles. A very old village, but new in appearance, built chiefly upon one long and wide street.

Bridgehampton.—Ninety-six miles. This is one of the most popular of the east end summer resorts, and well deserves its fame.

Sag Harbor.—One hundred and three quarter miles. This old town was once the headquarters of a large whale fishing interest.

Bridgehampton Station.

East Hampton.—One hour and thirty minutes from Bridgehampton. Old Hampton is directly upon the surf in full view of the ocean. Fine bathing and always well filled during the summer solstice.

Amagansett.—Stage from Sag Harbor, one hour and thirty minutes.

SOUTHERN RAILROAD.

Springfield.—Thirteen miles. Telegraph and post office. Derives name from numerous living springs.

Pearsall's.—Eighteen miles. Telegraph and post office.

East Rockaway.—One mile by stage. Noted for oysters, clams, etc.

Rockville Centre.—Nineteen and a half miles. Telegraph and post office.

Freeport.--Twenty-two and three quarter miles. Telegraph and post office. Daily trains.

Merrick.—Twenty-four a half miles.
Telegraph and post office. Daily trains.
Bellmore.—Twenty-five and three quarter miles. Post office.

South Oyster Bay.—Twenty-eight and three quarter miles. Telegraph and post office. A tolerably well-known wateringplace, and resort for sportsmen.

Amityville.—Telegraph and post office.

Brenlau.—Thirty-six miles. Post office.

Belmont Junction.—Thirty-six miles. Babylon.—Thirty-seven miles. Telegraph and post office. This is a venerable and historical settlement, probably better known than any other island village east of Rockaway.

Islip.—Forty-three and a half miles post office and telegraph. Population over 1,500. An old village in a lovely locality, with all the South Side attractions, good hotels, plenty of private accommodation, and, as everybody knows, the paradise for sportsmen.

Bay Shore.—Forty-one and one quarter miles. This is one of the most delightful of the South Side summer resorts.

Sayville.—Fifty miles. Telegraph and post office.

Bayport.—Fifty-three miles. Post office.

Bluepoint.—Fifty-four miles. Post office

Patchogue.—Fifty-four miles. Population 2,300. Telegraph. Present terminus of the South Side road. A busy and pleasant place. A more favorable spot for a summer vacation could scarcely be selected.

Bellport Village.—Four miles east of Patchogue, connects by stage and railroad. Tickets sold through to Bellport.

Rockaway Branch Road.

Woodsburgh.—Eighteen miles from Brooklyn line on the Rockaway Branch, three to four miles below Valley Stream station, and one mile from Ocean Point station, where all express trains across the meadows halt; was founded by the late Samuel Wood, eight years ago.

Ocean Point.—Nineteen miles.

Rockaway Beach.—Is a narrow peninsula, extending down four miles between Jamaica Bay and the Atlantic Ocean.

Far Rockaway.—Is on the main land at the head of this peninsula, four miles miles east of its extreme point.

North Shore and Central Roads.

Newtown.—Five miles.

Flushing.—Eight miles. A large village, too well known to need description.

Creedmoor.—Thirteen and a quarter miles.

Garden City.—Eighteen and a quarter miles. Garden City is part of the great Hempstead Plains, one mile distant, and in sight of the old village of Hempstead.

Great Neck Branch, North Shore Road, (From Flushing, eight miles.)

Little Neck.—Twelve and three quarter miles.

Great Neck.—Fourteen miles.

Manhasset.—Nine and a half miles from Great Neck depot.

Port Washington.—Two miles by stage on the Sound.

College Point and Whitestone Branch.

College Point.—Eight and three quarter miles.

Whitestone.—Ten and one quarter miles.

Northport.—Forty and a half miles. A pretty place on the Sound, much frequented by summer visitors.

Smithtown.—Forty-eight miles. St. James.—Fifty miles.

Shelter Island.—Directly south of Orient, comprises 8,000 acres. The shores of the Island are very irregular. Upon all sides bold, rugged cliffs and headlands project into the water, aud creeks and inlets penetrate far into the interior.

Woodbury.—Thirty-three miles. Huntington.—Thirty-five miles. Stony Brook.—Fifty-four miles. Old Field Point.—Three miles. Setauket.—Fifty-five miles.

Port Jefferson.—Fifty-eight miles. Centreport.—Thirty-seven and three quarter miles.

THE Kome Directory.

ESTABLISHED 1866.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY.

OFFICE; 6 East 14th Street.

Branch Offices: 140 and 142 Waverly Place, N. Y. 1002 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

GEO D. HANKINS & CO., Managers.

A limited number of advertisements will be inserted to accommodate those who desire to reach Housekeepers or Boarders.

For the information of Hotel and Boarding-House keepers not already acquainted with the HOME DIRECTORY, we would say that it is the only established institution of the kind in the country. Innumerable imitators, who seek to profit by our well-earned reputation, gained by twelve years earnest labor in the interest of Boarders and Lodgers-begin to flaunt their colors, and by enticing circulars draw unsuspecting Housekeepers into their toils. This, however, is not an unusual occurrence, as many of our readers will know to their sorrow. For the past three years concerns of this kind have periodically made their appearance, and after a few short weeks disappear, leaving no trace behind them. We do not object to fair competition; on the contrary we encourage it, as all honest endeavors in the work we represent but adds to the popularity of the Boarding Directory Business. It is only that class of so-called Boarding DIRECTORIES, that exist for "the Season," that we would caution our patrons against.

BAD FAITH.

Parties often apply to the Home Directory, for information concerning boarding accommodations in various houses, and after receiving the information required, neglect to report to the Directory the selections they make. To gain the information, it is necessary to sign a positive agreement with the Directory to report to them any selection they may make. Any violation of this contract is gross breach of trust; and to protect the Directory in future from this class of dead-heads, it will be necessary to take stringent measures to obtain the information they fail to give.

To the Public.

The Home Directory is published for the convenience of the boarding public, and in our humble efforts to serve, we would be most thankful to recieve any suggestions from our patrons, that may tend in any way to simplify or improve our present way of doing business. We would esteem it a great honor to hear from those interested in this matter.

Country Board Wanted.

Hotels, boarding-houses, or private families in the Country, having rooms to let, should send full particulars of the accommodations they have to offer to the Home Directory. No advance charges made whatever. Those sending particulars will please state the distance from depot, name of station, amount of grounds, size of house, number of rooms, distance from water, lowest terms for one or two, and all other matters of information that will be interesting, or aid us in answering inquiries.

Those desiring to have their houses advertised in the columns of this paper, can have suitable notices published for the season, at very low rates. The present circulation among those who desire accommodation in the city and country, is 3.000. This circulation will be doubled for the Summer season. The Home Directory reaches all the first-class Houses in New York.

COUNTRY BOARD.

For the convenience and accommodation of our patrons, a complete list of Summer Boarding Places will be kept on file at our office.

TO BOARDERS.

Boarders will please notice that all information given at this Office, is FREE

NOTICE.

This paper is the property of the Home Boarding Directory, and intended only for the use of its patrons. The matter contained in its columns is strictly confidential. The figures given are merely approximations, and in all cases subject to negotiation. Parties using our list of houses are, in honor, bound to report to the Directory any selection they may make.

BOARDERS WANTED. CITY HOUSES.

The figures in the two first rows indicate the price for two, in double rooms. In the last two rows, for one, in single rooms. Further particulars, as to location of rooms, &c., can be had at the Office, No. 6 East 14th Street.
