Dear Sir

Your favor of 23rd was recd and handed over to the committee, and consequently has not been responded to so promptly as it should have been. I greatly regret the trouble you have had in regard to the goods for our Fair in the Custom House. I do not understand the action of the two secretaries []. They certainly both understand that these goods are to be disposed of for the benefit of the soldiers. I am unable to find any one that has recd invoices here. Will try to get Mr Blow to procure an order if possible for the delivery of the goods. We will have a grand success receipts will be over ½ million. Your brother should be here to take a few chances in the [] and Gold and Silver Bars, He is so fortunate in raffles. With very many thanks. Regards to Mrs R—

I remain
Very Truly yours
